Student Highlights From Safety 2019

Jun 26, 2019

Safety 2019 in New Orleans, LA, set a new record for attendance with more than 5,600 on hand—including over 175 students from across the country.

Here are just a few highlights from the many student and emerging professional activities during the conference:

- Faculty advisor Paul Ronczkowski accepted the Outstanding Student Section Award for the Illinois State University student section at the House of Delegates meeting.
- The Emerging Professionals in OSH Common Interest Group (CIG) hosted a sold-out networking event at the Howlin' Wolf, as well as two well-attended networking breakfasts that included an overview of the CIG. The group also recognized five recipients of scholarships from breakfast sponsor Georgia-Pacific.
- Student roundtables covered 13 topics and were facilitated by industry leaders, giving students the opportunity to ask questions and prepare for their careers.
- Students and emerging professionals also gathered in the ASSP Communities Lounge, participating in fireside chats with senior ASSP leaders, interactive trivia games and networking.
- Many also visited the on-site career center to search for jobs, participate in resume critiques and meet sponsors.
- Several students presented original research posters.
- Kevin Slates, faculty advisor to the student section at Indiana University Bloomington received the Outstanding Safety Educator of the Year Award.

Mark your calendars for Safety 2020 which takes place June 23-25, in sunny Orlando, FL. We hope to see you there!

Illinois State University Named ASSP's Outstanding Student Section of the Year

Jul 01, 2019

For the second time in less than 5 years, ASSP's Illinois State University Student Section has been named Outstanding Student Section of the Year. Part of our Central Illinois Chapter, the section was strong in three critical requirements of the award: professional development, research (specifically for research on machine guarding for agricultural harvest equipment), and campus and community involvement.

"The quality of research and student involvement conducted by the smaller group of ASSP student members was outstanding," says the award committee. The section sponsored community events such as the Bright Horizons Safety Day in October 2018, for which members conducted home and school safety training lessons in Bloomington, IL. Other activities included hosting various training opportunities, decorating trees for a fundraiser and auction, giving out coffee at the university's homecoming, and hosting free CPR certification at the university.

The section will receive $6,000 to fund scholarships and research. Other qualifying student sections will receive a $500 stipend from our Society.

Congratulations!
